Guide and grow brand value

A core component of a comprehensive global brand marketing solution is a central repository to efficiently organize and manage your rich media assets. OpenText Media Management is a proven digital asset management system with thousands of users around the world. As part of a custom-tailored solution for enterprise-wide global brand marketing, OpenText helps increase productivity and the value of your brand and marketing assets.

OpenText optimizes your operation with real-time communication and responsiveness, allowing feedback and adjustments to campaigns or messages to be processed, approved and distributed seamlessly through the entire value chain. The OpenText production and distribution workflows for multi-channel, multi-platform, multi-device delivery and syndication result in shortened cycle times, quick response and faster turnarounds. This means increased customer satisfaction and lower costs.

Integrated workflow management

Workflow defines and automates the processes and operations to acquire, assemble, transform, annotate, approve, publish and distribute rich media. Streamlined workflows reduce the time to market with less effort and greater productivity, optimizing your operation.

Intelligent search and navigation

Large repositories require advanced search tools to sort and categorize results to quickly find the right material. OpenText provides faceted search and semantic navigation tools to drill down to the best search results. Filtering and indexing the different types or strata of data, including format, text tracks and analytics, helps add meaning and context to rich media assets.

A core component of a comprehensive global brand marketing solution is a central repository to efficiently organize and manage your rich media assets.

Integrated marketing value chain

Deliver synchronized and consistent brand messaging across all channels with the aid of OpenText solutions. Today, relevant, engaging and personalized experiences directed to the proper channel at the right time are critical to any online strategy.
